

The bounty of the surrounding oceans and the freshness of local produce are the inspiration for our cuisine. Phu Quoc is famous for its fragrant pepper, fresh seafood and tangy fish sauce, all of which provide inspiration for our Vietnamese, pan-Asian and simply delicious fusion of styles.

Settle down at the Peppertree restaurant overlooking the beach, soak up the atmosphere of a tropical evening, and enjoy inspired cuisine in inspirational surroundings.

Phu Quoc, the largest island in Vietnam, means something different to everybody. Known as KohTrai by the Cambodians, it is also referred to as the 'Island of 99 mountains' because of its many sandstone chains, and also 'The Emerald Island' for its bountiful natural treasures, but for visitors it's known simply as paradise.

Exploring Phu Quoc is fun and easy. You could rent a scooter for a day or take a tour in our own vintage jeep to explore the busy fish markets, empty beaches or beautiful forested hills.

Phu Quoc people are typical islanders - laid back, friendly and welcoming - chat with one of the market stallholders or kids on the beach and you'll soon discover that a smile and a wave are the only language skills required!

la Veranda
- Resorts -

A boutique resort on an undiscovered gem of a tropical island off the southern coast of Vietnam, La Veranda Resort is truly one of a kind. The style is definitely Asian, but is redolent of a fine old Caribbean villa surrounded by tropical gardens and facing a pristine sandy beach.

The island itself is a heart-shaped slice of paradise, with a high central ridge of protected dense rainforest and a fringe of Palm-lined white sand beaches.

Lapped by the clean waters of the Gulf of Thailand, our stretch of beach is as beautiful as it is tranquil. The beach loungers at La Veranda offer a vantage point to see Asia as it once was - simple, unhurried and unsullied by mass tourism.

Like most things at La Veranda, our spa is a little different. The spaces are refreshingly bright and airy, and our treatments are designed to refresh, relax, and revitalize. All of the products used in our spa (and in our guest rooms) are 100% natural, and carefully blended to stimulate your senses.

Shady corners and cool onshore breezes make poolside a pleasure at La Veranda. Our attentive staff are always ready to bring a refreshing drink or a soothing cold towel, so all you need to do is relax and enjoy the tropical sunshine.

Our cool, deep-blue pool is as popular after the stars come out as it is during the day. Swimming under the stars or under the tropical sun is always a delight, and our built-in Jacuzzi will soothe away the stresses of daily life.

A place to relax and escape, your room at La Veranda is a tranquil and luxurious haven. Cool tiles in traditional designs, dark woods and fine linens combine to give an exotic, sumptuous atmosphere, while your balcony is the ideal place to kick back and catch the cool ocean breeze.

Our garden rooms are surrounded by lush tropical greenery and exotic flowers, while the beach front suites offer stunning sea views, and are ideal to watch our spectacular island sunsets.

Aside from the gentle waves on the shore, the soundtrack to your stay at La Veranda is the gentle sound of cow-bells, the chug of a fishing boat passing by and the cry of a sea eagle circling overhead.
